REMARKS.

We would say that we have visited the schools frequently during the year and find that good results have been obtained throughout, the Teachers having rendered excellent service during the year.

One very important feature which tends to make a school highly successful is most seriously neglected in ours, and that is failure of parents to visit the schools occasionally during the year. It's claimed and not without foundation, that it creates an interest and a very important one which can't be gained by any other course. We submit this question to the many parents, and hope the coming year we shall see a new and very important interest established which will give a much needed strength to our schools. If the parents don't take active interest why should others?

F. C. STARRETT,		Bennington.

Library Report.

The Library is well patronized, about one hundred are taking out books.

There is need of a new catalogue; and we advise that there be about the same amount of money raised for this year as last.

There have been 68 volumes purchased; State has given eight volumes; James Taylor, one volume; George Willey, pub., one volume.
